

INSULL STOCK VALUE BOOST- ED IN LEDGER

According to Former Controller of Halsey Stuart Co.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Testimony that within a few weeks after the formation of the Corporation Securities Company stock purchased by the company for $18,000,000 was written up on the investment ledger to a value of $48,000,000 was introduced today in the trial of Samuel Insull and his 16 co-defendants.

The disclosure was made a government prosecutor resumed the questioning of Van Lamont, former controller of Halsey Stuart & Co., brokers who aided Insull in the promotion of the securities company and who are also defendants.

Lamont, who yesterday identified a letter indicating that the organizers of the Corporation Securities Company were "comprehensive of the blue sky law, told of two writings which he said he made at the request of Clarence T. McNeill, secretary of Halsey Stuart and a defendant.

Told of Two Deals
Corporation Securities, said Lamont, purchased from Halsey Stuart 152,270 shares of Insull Utility Investments common for $3,407,601 in cash. A few weeks later, he said, he wrote the value of this stock on the company books at $15,000,420.

In another deal, which Lamont yesterday said was part of a 14-point plan for the re-organization of Corporation Securities from a Halsey Stuart subsidiary into an Insull corporation, 557,000 shares of Middle West Utilities stock purchased for $13,000,000 was written up to a value of $30,000,000 the witness asserted.

Lamont, a bald, slender man of middle age, was the first of the "heavy" witnesses through whom the government hopes to prove its charge that the seventeen defendants used the mails in a scheme to obtain from investors throughout the country some $100,000,000 in return for worthless stock.

Dwight H. Green, district attorney, said Lamont would be on the stand all day and probably all of tomorrow.

"Fraudulent Value"
Leslie E. Salter, government prosecutor, turned his questioning to the charge, made in the opening statement, that the Corporation Securities stock was kept at a fraudulent market value through the purchase by the company of its own stock on the open market.

Lamont testified that the time the company was selling its stock to investors for $75 a share, purchases were being made for the company on the market at prices ranging from $80 to $100.75.

A purported list of these purchases was passed around for inspection by the jury.

The signature of defendant No. 1, Samuel Insull, was introduced for the first time when Lamont identified a letter sent by Insull to Halsey Stuart & Co. The letter purported to accompany the delivery of 7,000 allotment certificates of the Corporation Securities Company of Chicago, given in return for services rendered by the investment company in the allotment, delivery and payment of 700,000 allotment certificates of the Corporation Securities Co. It also acknowledged receipt of $525 to cover the transfer charge.

A letter in which the Corporation Securities Company asked advice on the legality of omitting references to a $34,954,153 write-off on the value of its securities was introduced.

The letter was admitted during the questioning of Van Lamont.

In the letter, addressed to W. J. Parker, of the law firm of Schuyler, Weinfield & Hennessy, Clarence T. MacNeill, secretary of Halsey Stuart, complained of the embarrassment of constantly referring to the "sore spot" of the write-off.

Part of Text
The letter, dated January 27, 1930 read, in part:

"When you and Mr. Tobey (Waldo F. Tobey, one of the defendants) consider the legal aspects of the write-off of $34,954,153.20 which we took on our inventory preliminary to filing our statement with the Chicago Stock Exchange as of November 15, 1929, you were of the opinion that in the publication of all future statements pending the time when this amount was returned to our balance sheet, it would be necessary to mention it.

"This procedure, while undoubtedly being proper from a legal standpoint, means continually bringing up a sore spot and constantly keeping before our stockholders and the public a matter which it seems to us should be disposed of and forgotten once it has been explained. This was certainly our intention when making the write-off and we hoped that we would be able to start off fresh on our adjusted balance sheet on November 15 and forget the past to speak.

The matter comes up at this time in connection with its treatment in our annual report to our stockholders, and if there is any possible way by which we can refer to the matter in this report and then forget it for all time so far as to mention it in our annual report, we would be very glad to do so.

ARREST COUPLE FOR MURDER OF FIVE LAST JUNE

Alleged Principals of K. C. Station Killings in Custody

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Department of Justice disclosed today that Richard Tallman Galatas and his wife Elizabeth were under arrest as principals in the machine gun slaughter of Federal and police officers at Kansas City June 17, 1933, in an attempt to free Frank Nash, a Federal prisoner.

Assistant Attorney General Stanley said Galatas and his wife, wanted for conspiracy to deliver Nash, were apprehended at New Orleans September 22 and would be arraigned today in Kansas City.

Galatas when arrested was using the name of E. W. Lee. The wholesale slaughter in which Galatas was charged with being involved resulted in the slaying of Special Agent R. J. Caffrey, of the division of investigation; Otto Reed, chief of police of McAlester, Okla.; and W. J. Grooms and Frank E. Hermanson, as well as their prisoner, Nash.

In Sudden Blast
The officers had led Nash, recaptured after his escape from Leavenworth, across the Union station to a parked automobile. As they grouped about the car, they were subjected to sudden blasts of machine gun fire at close range.

Stanley said investigation of the slayings had disclosed that it was Galatas who went to a tourist camp and informed Mrs. Nash that her husband had been arrested by Federal agents at Hot Springs, Ark.

He added that Mrs. Nash then communicated with "Doc" Louis Stacci, proprietor of a roadhouse at Melrose Park, Chicago.

In the meantime, Stanley said, Galatas accompanied Mrs. Nash to the home of Herb and Esther Farmer at Joplin where last minute telephonic instructions were given to Verne C. Miller, former South Dakota sheriff, who Stanley said was the actual leader of the fatal assault on Nash's escape.

Mrs. Nash, Farmer and his wife, Stacci and Galatas are under arrest.

Miller was the victim of a later gangland slaying.

Largest Controlled Migration in History Has Been Started by Federal Relief Administrator

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A controlled migration that may be one of the largest movements of its kind in history has been started by Harry Hopkins, relief administrator.

He disclosed last night that the government, working secretly to thwart speculators, has already bought a million acres of poor farm land, from which families are being transplanted to better soil.

Three to four more millions of acres will be bought through the 25,000,000 program is finished. The average cost per acre will be about $5. The sub-marginal land will become parks, forests, game preserves and Indian reservations.

THE MARSEILLES ASSASSINATION

Sketched by Paul Kroesen

The mortal wounding of King Alexander I of Yugoslavia is graphically shown in this Evening Telegraph sketch of the bloody tragedy in Marseille, France, which Petrus, Croatia business man, sworn to avenge wrongs he believed had been inflicted on his compatriots by the monarch, plunged through France and started his journey away from the Marseilles docks. The back, Barthou, vainly trying to shield his royal companion, also was a cavalryman, thundering in, swung his sabre, felling Petrus, who went down, to be trampled to death a moment later by the frenzied crowd.

LINCOLN HI-WAY MODERNIZATION AIM OF PROGRAM

Campaign for a Wider and Straighter Hi-way is Started

Cities and villages between and including Geneva and Clinton, Iowa, long have felt the necessity of having the Lincoln Highway improved to a point where it will be one of the principal motor travel routes of the country. This was the expression of representatives of cities, towns and chambers of commerce at a meeting held at the Nachusa Tavern yesterday called by President Charles E. Miller of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of outlining some program looking toward the elimination of the present dangerous curves and narrow stretches of paving and improve the highway for travel.

Peter Thompson, Fulton, one of the founders of the Lincoln Highway, presented some very interesting information concerning the route, which was at one time considered the main artery of motor travel from east to west. President Miller of the local Chamber of Commerce presided at the meeting, which was attended by about 40.

Is Narrow Pavement
After the luncheon, short talks were made by members of the Dixon committee, George B. Shaw, Louis Pitcher and H. C. Warner, and delegates Oscar Nelson of Geneva, Judge Carl Sheldon of Sterling, Peter Thompson of Fulton, A. C. Root of Clinton, Iowa and Mayon Hiland of DeKalb.

All of the representatives from the various communities were included in the plan to modernize the Lincoln Highway. Mr. Thompson stated that more than 40 per cent of the Lincoln Highway between DeKalb and the Mississippi River is only 16 feet in width or less. Oscar Nelson of Geneva strongly advocated the purpose of the program to secure a modern 40-foot super-highway from Geneva to the Mississippi river.

Committees were named from the several localities represented to organize for the purpose of going to Springfield and presenting to the state officials the plan for the modernizing of the highway. Those from Dixon named to act were: Louis Pitcher, H. C. Warner, John P. Devine and George B. Shaw. Committees from other communities which have been named are as follows:

HAUPTMANN TO FIGHT RETURN TO NEW JERSEY

New York's Governor to Sign Extradition
Papers Today

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Governor Lehman announced today he would sign papers at 5 P. M. E. S. T., extraditing Bruno Richard Hauptmann to New Jersey to face trial for the murder of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby.

James M. Pawcett, counsel to Hauptmann, announced today that Hauptmann would "fight extradition to the end" in the courts. Pawcett made his announcement after a conference with the governor and his counsel, Charles Polcetti.

Hauptmann's counsel said he would apply tomorrow morning to Bronx county or Bronx supreme court for a writ of habeas corpus which if granted, in effect, stay the governor's extradition order temporarily.

He said he did not ask the governor for a hearing for his client, who was indicted in New Jersey last week for the murder of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby.

ANNUAL ALUMNI GAME FEATURE THIS WEEK END

High School Football Team to Play Stars
of Yesteryear

The Dixon high school football squad is without a game on the regular Rock River Valley Conference schedule this week, and an exhibition game has been announced for Friday afternoon at the northside athletic field starting at 3:45. At this time the alumni of the high school will don their gridiron togs and attempt to wrest a victory from Coach Lindell's squad.

Last year a game between the regular high school team and the alumni proved a big attraction to the football fans of the city and the student body, and the success of this venture has resulted in its repetition on Friday afternoon of this week. The alumni is going through a series of regular practice drills in preparation for this important game. Outstanding stars of recent years in the high school squads will compose the alumni squad.

STEWART ESTATE TRUSTEE NAMED IN COURT BILL

Administrator of Stewart
Estate Files Suit Against Trustee

Attorney E. E. Wingert, representing Martin D. Barnett as administrator, with the will annexed of the estate of Kate B. Stewart, deceased, and E. M. Nefstead, filed a complaint in law and in equity in the circuit court late yesterday afternoon naming Attorney George C. Dixon of this city, trustee of the estate, as defendant, and asking damages in the sum of $10,000.

The complaint states that E. M. Nefstead, leasee, has 230 cattle, feeders for fattening up the products and upon the farm of the decedent and in the fattening required certain corn and oats in and in possession of Strawbridge, and raised before the appointment of the defendant as purported trustee; that on August 7, 1934, the plaintiff demanded that Strawbridge deliver possession of one-half of the corn and oats on hand and on possession of Strawbridge, prior to the appointment of the defendant as trustee; that the plaintiff removed one load of corn and after August 16, Strawbridge refused to allow the plaintiff to remove the corn and oats and giving as his reason, the serving on him by the defendant on August 16, 1934 of a notice.

The bill further alleges that the plaintiffs were on August 16, 1934, and still are without the necessary corn and oats for the proper feeding of cattle under the terms of a leasing agreement and since that date have been obliged to feed said cattle with green corn and green forage, which is unsuitable for the purpose of properly fattening the cattle for the market.

That the cattle have not increased in value.
That had the plaintiffs been able to secure corn and oats allegedly unlawfully withheld, the cattle would have increased in value, $10,000.

That the plaintiff has no funds with which to purchase quantities and kinds of feed as those unlawfully and maliciously caused to be withheld, to properly feed the cattle.

That a fair cash market value of the corn and oats on August 16, 1934 value, was $2,500 and is now $3,300.

That damages be allowed in the sum of $1,250 as the value of the plaintiff's one-half interest in the corn and oats, so now withheld by Harry S. Strawbridge.

That further damages in the sum of $400 as including the market value of the corn and oats be (Continued on Page 2.)

European Capitals Are Quiet As Body Of Slain King Is Escorted Home

Alexander's Son, 11,
Becomes Peter II
of Yugoslavia

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON ALERT
Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Washington officialdom watched the Balkan scene closely today for indications of what might develop from the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, and Foreign Minister Barthou of France.

Discovery by the French secret police that Petrus Kalemien, the assassin, might be a Czech rather than a Croat, as at first reported, perturbed officials.

King Alexander's death at the hands of one of his own subjects gave grave cause for concern over possible internal disturbances in Yugoslavia, but seemed to preclude that the murder might become a second Sarajevo.

If Kalemien's passport shows he was a Czech, officials believed, it might place an entirely different aspect on the assassination and, by involving the neighboring nation of Czechoslovakia, create a much more dangerous situation.

SEEK SLAYER'S ORIGIN
Belgrade, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The last will of the assassinated King Alexander provides that the boy King Peter II return to school in England after the funeral of his father.

Yugoslavian authorities said today they had been unsuccessful in all efforts to determine the identity or origin of Petrus Kalemien, the man who killed Alexander yesterday at Marseilles.

Yugoslavian, French and Czechoslovakian police are working to penetrate the veil of mystery which shrouds the identity of the killer.

One fact seemed certain and that was that Kalemien was not a member of the Kalemien family of revolutionary fame, despite the similarity of the name.

Yugoslavian authorities have located all the members of this family, many in jail.

Even the tattooing on the assassin's arm, indicating that he was a member of the "IMRO" (International Macedonian Revolutionary Organization) was regarded by Yugoslavian authorities as a trick to throw them off the right track as regards Kalemien's real identity.

dead Barthou had lay in state beside Alexander.

Together they were shot down at 4:10 P. M. yesterday by Petrus Kalemien, a 35-year-old native of Zagreb, and they died only an hour apart. Kalemien, himself, was mortally injured by the police and the crowd.

Two Others Dead
Two other persons were fatally wounded in the burst of fire from Kalemien's pocket sub-machinegun and his auxiliary pistol and the re-playing shots of the police. Policeman Galli died last night and a spectator, Madame Dubree, a widow, died today.

Fourteen other persons, including Gen. Alphonse Joseph Georges of the French superior war council, were wounded.

President Albert Lebrun of France, shocked by the tragedy, was here with many ministers of the cabinet. He arranged that these dignitaries should accompany the body of Barthou to Paris when the funeral train departed three hours after the Dubrovnik sailed for Yugoslavia.

King Alexander's last thoughts were of his duty—the task which was his birthright.

Preserve Friendships
"Preserve Franco-Yugoslav friendship," he muttered in a supreme effort before he lapsed into a coma, to his friend and foreign minister, Bogoljub Jevitch.

Barthou expired as he whispered "I am so thirsty."

The king's consort, Queen Marie, daughter of the famous Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, reached her husband's side as he lay in death in the prefecture of Marseilles.

She suggested that he should be laid to rest in the uniform of a simple enlisted man of the Yugoslavian army. But other advisers prevailed and she agreed that he be buried in the field service uniform of a general of the Serbian army, in which he fought in the World War.

Although the assassin was first identified as a Yugo-slavian, secret police learned that his passport was issued by the Czechoslovakian Consul at Zagreb, this circumstance indicating he was a Czech. The police, otherwise, perturbed over being killed by one of his own countrymen had served to ease somewhat various European chancelleries, otherwise perturbed over the possible consequences of the assassination.

One of Bloodiest
The assassination was one of the bloodiest in history, although Kalemien intended to kill only Alexander.

He used a powerful automobile pistol which fired ten shots. When the burst died away Alexander and Barthou were mortally wounded; a policeman who tried to save the king and the assassin himself were dead.

Kalemien had a bomb in his pocket. He had no chance to use it. Two men found near him were arrested and reports were circulated that five suspicious appearing men were seen armed, but police (Continued on Page 2)

Optometrist Finds

Marriage Surprise

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—His "marriage" was a complete surprise to him. Dr. Chas. D. Crawford, an optometrist, told the court today in an annulment action, although he was present and witnessed the ceremony.

The surprise came from the fact, Crawford testified, that three days later friends told him his name was on the marriage certificate signed by a Cicero Justice of the Peace.

Crawford said he was 14 feet from the bride during the ceremony and another person put the ring on her finger. Crawford said he was present only as a witness.

The woman in the case, Helen Maria Newcombe Crawford, a showgirl known as Betty was not in court.

No "Isle of Lost Ships"

Located in Sargasso Sea

In 1925 Dr. William Beebe headed an expedition to the Sargasso sea for the New York Zoological society. His report firmly discredited the belief that there is an "isle of lost ships," or a "graveyard of missing ships" in the Atlantic. Or, as legend and myth have it, that all the wrecks and derelicts of the Atlantic eventually drift to this weedy spot and here, tangled in a mat of vegetation, slowly eddy round and round in desolate assembly.

The Sargasso sea, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, is the name given to a vast area in the Atlantic ocean roughly between the parallels of 20 degrees and 30 degrees north and meridians 30 degrees and 70 degrees west, in which patches of seaweed are common. These patches of seaweed are kept in a slow swirl by the Gulf stream and the equatorial current. Columbus noted the abundance of floating weeds in this region in 1492. In his log may be found a record of the occurrence of the Gulf-weed. The name arises from the fact that the Spaniards called this region "Mar de Sargazo," sea of seaweeds. "Sargazo" being Spanish for seaweed.

Doctor Beebe cruised for a month in the Sargasso sea and reported that at only certain seasons does the weed collect into floating patches, and that these are soon scattered by gales. He also saw thin streamers of weed, sometimes a mile or two long, undulating over the sea.

Whether the seaweed propagates in the open sea or drifts in from the coast is a disputed question. Although no seeds or spores are formed in mid-ocean, it is concluded that the weed propagates at sea by vegetation for many years, if not perennially.

Founding of Churches

The Roman Catholic church dates back to the establishment of the Christian church, whose final division into the Roman Catholic and Greek churches occurred in 1054 A. D. Lutheranism was founded between 1521, when Luther appeared before the Diet at Worms, and 1530, the date of the Augsburg Confession. The Church of England, or Anglican church, dates as a separate church from 1534, when Henry VIII was declared the supreme head of the church.

CROP ESTIMATE
SHOWS RAVAGES
OF THE DROUGHTGovernment's Report for October Issued this Afternoon

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The nation's wheat crop was estimated today at 496,982,000 bushels for this year by the Department of Agriculture which also reported the indicated corn crop at 1,416,772,000 bushels, showing the ravages of this year's severe drought.

Indicated wheat production has crept up slightly each month, despite drought conditions, 484,000,000 bushels indicated in August and 493,000,000 bushels in September.

But production this year is under last year's 528,000,000 bushels and far below the five-year average for 1927-31 of 886,000,000 bushels.

Corn indications have shown the effects of the drought, dropping from 2,113,000,000 bushels in July to 1,807,000,000 bushels in August and 1,485,000,000 bushels in September. Production last year was 2,344,000,000 bushels, while the 1927-31 average production was 2,516,000,000 bushels.

The winter wheat crop this year is 401,000,000 bushels, compared with 352,000,000 bushels last year and 632,000,000 bushels, the 1927-31 average.

Production of all spring wheat this year, according to the department's preliminary estimate, will be 96,460,000 bushels, compared with 89,400,000 bushels in July, 90,400,000 bushels in August, and 92,800,000 bushels in September. Last year's production was 5,000,000 bushels, and the five-year, 1927-31, average production was 254,000,000 bushels.

Fuel Tax $3,520.80

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Illinois counties were allotted $488,514.90 for highway construction today from September gas tax collections.

The total allotment to the counties as their two-month share of the gas tax was $26,014.90, but the state finance department set aside $137,500 as reserve for interest and retirement payments on the $20,000,000 unemployment relief bond issue.

Allotments to counties, minus the reserve, include:

Cook $185,708.86; Kane, $12,270.82; LaSalle, $8,787.64; Lee, $3,520.80; Rock Island, $8,184.75; Stephenson, $4,250.13; Whiteside, $4,907.37; Winnebago, $10,948.15; Bureau, $3,836.66.

Litigation Ended

Over Peoria Life

by Supreme Court

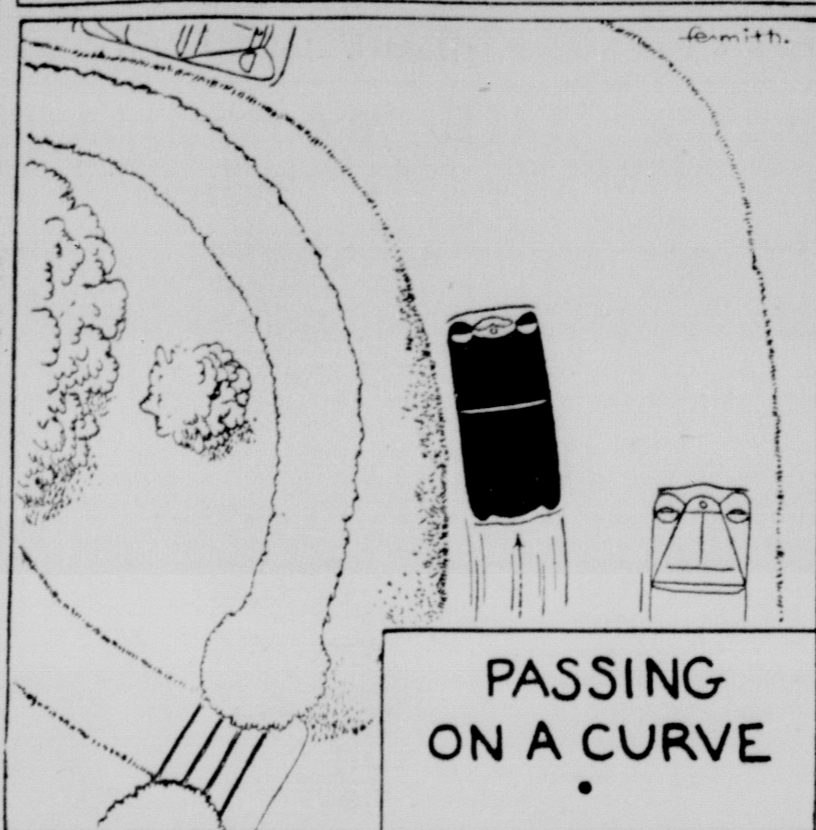

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today denied a rehearing of its decision regarding the transfer of assets of the defunct Peoria Life Insurance Company and, in so doing, ended the lengthy litigation in which the affairs of the company have been involved since it was placed in receivership.

The supreme court originally held that the Peoria county circuit court was without authority to order the transfer of assets to a newly organized insurance company, the Peoria Mutual Life Insurance Co. It was held in this decision that the power to sanction transfer of assets and to approve reinsurance plans was vested in the state insurance director, Ernest Palmer, who had approved the reinsurance contract submitted by the Life & Casualty Co. of Chicago, which has since changed its name to the Alliance Life Insurance Co. and moved its home office to Peoria.

Diagrams of Danger—No. 2

No one is more active in the campaign to persuade the automobile driver to exercise the care, courtesy and common sense which will reduce the appalling number of accidents than Motor Vehicle Administrators. They know the facts. Ten of them, officers of National and Regional Associations, have described the most common causes of accidents and pedestrian faults.

By PAUL H. DOYAL,
Chairman, State Revenue Commission, Georgia
Region No. 2 of American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators

If a motorist were to find himself in a wholly dark car on a wholly dark road, it is fairly certain that he would not take a chance, but would stop. Yet, that is exactly what the motorist does not do when he endeavors to pass another car on a curve. The way is entirely blind ahead of him. He does not know what is around that curve.

There may be a big truck or a fast flying bus or even a small car just over the brow of the hill. That means an accident.

According to figures supplied by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, there were 5,420 accidents last year due to an attempt to pass another car on a curve, particularly on a hill. The deaths numbered 140 and the injuries 5,530. There was a truck or a bus or another car just over the brow of the hill.

State police on country roads report this passing on curves on hills to be one of the most frequent offenses by motor drivers. You will often find these policemen waiting on these hills. Summonses or arrests inevitably result, and in the country it is a sure fine. Of course, there are not enough policemen for every curve on every hill, therefore, many can get away with it except for the fact that there is another car coming. They pay more dearly than the arrested or fined drivers.

They pay for it with the lives of themselves and their families as well as strangers. They pay for it in property damage, and in the economic loss due to the accidents.

No one ever has to pass on a hill—don't do it!

CHRISTIAN CHURCH REVIVAL

There were five responses to the gospel invitation last night at the revival services at the First Christian church, making a total of seven for the series. Rev. Slater brought a stirring message upon "Four Things God Has For Us," in which he specially emphasized redemption and forgiveness.

The choir sang a special number and will furnish a special again for tonight's service. Rev. Slater will preach tonight upon, "Not Far From the Kingdom." The services continue each evening this week at 7:30 and will come to a close on Sunday evening.

Is This Too Good

for Your Cough?

Cremolium may be a better help than you need. It combines seven helps in one. It is made for quick relief, for safety. Mild coughs often yield to looser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Cremolium for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist is authorized to guarantee it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known. (adv.)

Keyes-Daniels Wedding Saturday

The marriage of Miss Margaret Keyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Keyes of Amboy, and Carl Daniels, son of Mrs. M. Daniels, of Amboy, was performed Saturday evening at St. Patrick's rectory, in that city, with Rev. Robert C. Troy, officiating. The single ring ceremony was used. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lane, the latter a sister of the bride. The couple left shortly after the ceremony for Chicago, to attend a Century of Progress, and to visit relatives. On returning from their honeymoon the couple will reside in Amboy where the bridegroom is employed at the Amboy Milk Products Co. Both Mr. and Mrs. Daniels are well-known in Amboy and their many friends wish them happiness and success.

Hustlers' Sunday School Class Met

The Hustlers' Sunday school class of the Sugar Grove church, held a very enjoyable meeting on Friday evening at the home of Irene and John Mensch. Eight visitors were present. The treasurer's report was sung. Plans were made for a Halloween social. Several songs were sung after which Nina Saunders had charge of the games which proved very interesting and entertaining. Delicious refreshments were served and at a late hour all departed for their homes after having spent a happy evening.

Sixtieth Anniversary W. M. S. Christian Ch. Celebrated

The sixtieth anniversary of the organization of the Woman's Missionary Society was celebrated at the Christian church.
An organ recital and the singing of hymns began at 7:30, after which all went to the church parlors for the program. The parlors were prettily decorated with beautiful garden flowers.
Rev. J. A. Barnett gave the invocation, then all sang "Faith of Our Mothers."
A tribute to Mrs. Caroline Neville Pearce, the founder of the woman's club work, was given by Miss Dorabelle McCord. Then a dramatization "Missions Through A Crystal" was put on by Miss Lillie Cunningham. As she gazed at her crystal she was amazed to find the United States and a group of missionary-minded people organizing an American society and sending missionaries all over the world. That was the "Gazer of the Past."
The "Gazer of the Present" was Clarence Seyster, and of the "Future" was Mrs. Carl Stray. The young missionaries to India were Marian Emmert as Anna Boyd; Gladys Kime as Mary Kingsbury; Verda Padgett as Mary Graybill; Mrs. Don Stauffer as Moti Solomon and Evelyn Schumacher as a Missionary.

A "Challenge" was given by Mrs. Merle Neer, and the reply by Mrs. Clinton Emmert.
A challenge chorus was sung by the young people.
A toast to the past was given by Mrs. C. B. Rhodes.
A "Toast to Our Unseen Guests" was given by Mrs. Winnifred Wells.
A "Toast to the Present" by Mrs. J. A. Barnett.
A "Toast to the Official Board"—Rev. J. A. Barnett.
"Toast to the Future"—Helen Rhodes and Margaret Kling.
As each toast was given a tall white candle was lighted to symbolize different projects, to set a flame around the world.
The consecration service was led by Frank Johnson. All sang "Lead On, O King Eternal" Then a prayer and a helpful talk about missions followed.

A large white cake in the center of the table had been prepared by Mrs. H. W. Taylor. On the cake was a tall white candle—"A Flame of the Lord's Kindling—Which no Man Can Extinguish."
There were also sixty small candles representing the sixty years that the work has been going on.

Children Will Eat a Vegetable Dinner

HUNGER ONLY ALTERNATIVE

By MARY E. DAGUE
(NEA Service Staff Writer.)

For children who won't eat their vegetables, no matter how helpful than the vegetable plate. This oddly paradoxical statement may be proved by the simple method of trying it out.

In the first place, if you have only vegetables, naturally the children will eat their vegetables or go hungry, and I have yet to see the healthy boy or girl who will voluntarily go without food if there is anything to eat within range.

Then in the second place, the vegetables for a vegetable plate are usually prepared with more variety and care and served more attractively than the ones that accompany the regular meat meals.

Cauliflower is in season now and will be in market and reasonably priced until after Thanksgiving. It's one of the most satisfactory vegetables to use in combination with other fall vegetables, too, and if it is cooked and served to perfection it is beautiful as well as deliciously flavored.

Don't Forget Tomatoes
Another vegetable that we want to make the most of right now is the tomato. Tomatoes will be gone soon except for the canned ones and nothing adds more piquancy to a vegetable plate.

Tiny new carrots are colorful, and being mild-flavored, go with everything. Autumn vegetables are strongly juiced and it is necessary to include one or two mild flavored vegetables in every combination.

Late green beans add an inviting touch and are mild flavored, too. They also furnish desirable contrast in texture, color and shape.

With onions to contribute a savory high-light the vegetable plate is complete, full of contrasting colors and flavors and altogether satisfying.

Troubled sixty cents marched around the table and each lit a candle and dropped the money in the center of the cake. As they did this the song, "With Them We're Marching On," was sung by the audience.

Several of the children or relatives of charter members of the society, who have passed on, contributed in memory of their loved ones. They were Mrs. A. S. Durr, Mrs. Pearl Reynolds, Miss Florence and Lena Nett, Miss Bernice DeFrait, Mrs. Hazel Emmert, Mrs. Donna Slothower, Miss Emma and Mabel Rodesch and Clinton Fahrney.

Some of our "unseen guests" were Mrs. John Netz, Mrs. Kime, Mrs. Jane Howell and Mrs. A. P. Tice.

Some unable to be present were Mrs. Robbins and Miss Ethel Madison.

A consecration thought was given by all and the Benediction by the pastor closed the event.

It proved a pleasant and profitable evening for the many friends of the society who came, and the success was largely due to the unflinching enthusiasm and hard work of Mrs. A. S. Derr.

Dixon W. R. C. Meeting Monday

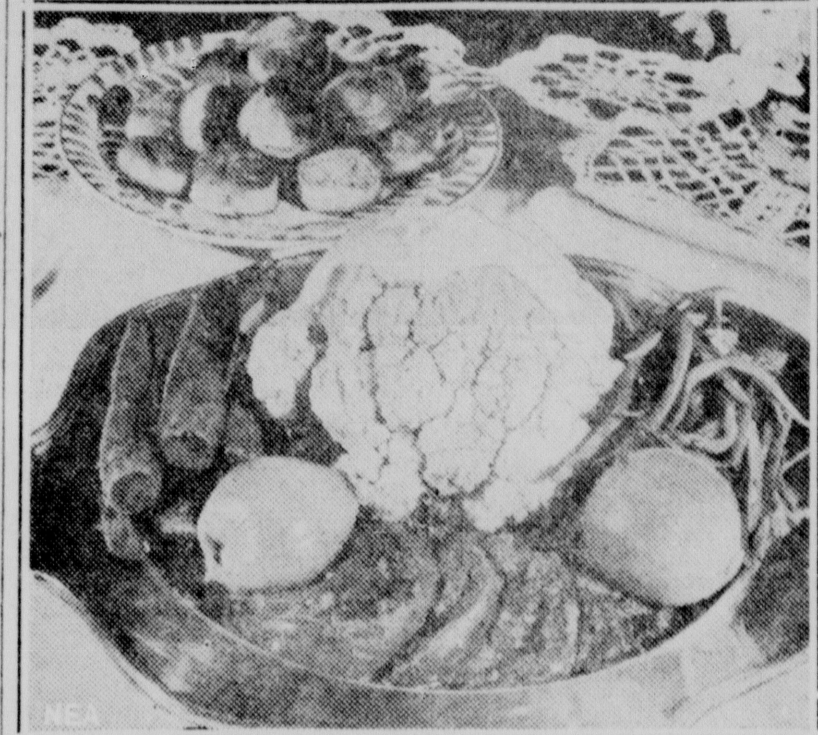

The Woman's Relief Corps, No. 218 met Monday afternoon. An invitation was received from the Legion Auxiliary inviting the Corps to attend their installation of officers, Oct. 16 in Legion hall, which was accepted and it is hoped all who can, will attend. The Boy Scout movement was discussed and it was decided that the W. R. C. give the movement their support.

Several were reported ill. The Relief committee had on display the comforters they tied at Mrs. Ware's home last week. They wished the ladies to see what was done with the pieces they have given the committee. This comforter will be given to a worthy family. It is hoped among having pieces of calico to spare will please donate to the committee, as they expect to make several comforters this winter. Also, if anyone has clothing that can be mended so it may be worn, the committee will be happy to accept it. The committee reported on the rummage sale held last Friday, which was a success, and a neat little sum of money realized. The president thanked the committee and all who assisted.

Community Club Hintzleman Home

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hintzleman and family of north of Franklin Grove entertained the Hillside Community Club at their home on Friday evening, Oct. 5. A large attendance being present.

The president called the meeting to order and a few things discussed, then the minutes of the last meeting were read by the sec-

Mayonnaise provides the foundation for a cream sauce that enhances the vegetable dinner.

Cauliflower in Piquant Sauce
1 fine head cauliflower
2 tablespoons butter (or good substitute)
2 tablespoons flour
1-4 cup water cauliflower was cooked in
1 cup milk
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon white pepper
4 tablespoons heavy mayonnaise
Trim cauliflower and soak, head down, in salt water for thirty minutes. Cook head up, in boiling salted water for thirty minutes.

This is important because the stalks of cauliflower require long cooking than the tender top and it's very easy to over-cook part of it before the other part is done. Drain and reserve 1-4 cup water or sauce.

Melt butter or other fat and stir in flour. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly and then add the cauliflower water. Cook and stir until thick and smooth. Remove from fire and stir in mayonnaise, adding mayonnaise slowly and stirring constantly. Don't try to use plain salad dressing in this recipe a true mayonnaise must be used. Pour sauce over cauliflower and serve.

Slice the tomatoes, dot with butter and broil quickly first on one side and then on the other. Cook carrots in boiling salted water for ten minutes. Drain and braise in butter combined with 2 tablespoons orange juice and 1 tablespoon sugar, using 2 tablespoons butter.

Serve the onions simmered in water to which chicken bouillon cubes have been added. Calculate 1 cube to 4 onions.
Cook beans in boiling salted water and serve simply dressed with salt, pepper and butter.

Dixon Chap. D. A. R. First Meeting Sat.

Members of the Dixon Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution opened their new year Saturday afternoon, October 6th, with a splendid and well attended meeting at the home of Mrs. S. S. Dodge, with Miss Jennie Laing and Mrs. Blake Grover assisting.

Miss Laing, vice regent, called the meeting to order, and the usual devotions following with Mrs. Dodge at the piano.

Announcement was made of the district meeting to be held in Rockford on October 19th, 1934. It was decided to make the November meeting a guest day. Mrs. E. J. Brown will be hostesses, and there will be an exhibition at this time a display of fancy work from the Crossmore school. The guest speaker will be Mrs. Zimmerman, state chairman and her topic will be "Patriotic Education."

Mrs. Anna Sproul, who enjoyed a motor trip to Florida last winter, had the paper of the afternoon, and she entertained with a very interesting account of various places visited enroute. Her description of the Martha Berry schools near Rome, Georgia, was much enjoyed, and was of especial interest to all present, as the Martha Berry schools are one of the D. A. R. projects. These schools are located on a 25,000 acre campus, with 75 miles of beautiful drives. There are more than a hundred buildings and Henry Ford has recently erected a splendid quadrangle and swimming pool. These very fine schools are the result of an inspiration of Martha Berry who some thirty years ago, in a small frame dwelling started a school for underprivileged boys. Today these fine modern buildings house both boys and girls, and about one thousand students enjoy the many privileges these schools afford.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a delightful social interval enjoyed.

League Women Voters Luncheon

The League of Women Voters will enjoy a 1 o'clock picnic luncheon Friday at Reynoldswood. General picnic rules will prevail. All members are requested to bring as many friends as possible to join the league. All women who are eligible to vote are eligible to membership in the league.

The luncheon is to be served in the lodge.

Speakers for the afternoon will be Mrs. Jasper King, Chicago, president of the Cook County League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Archer Taylor, Chicago, chairman of the Dept. of Government and Child Welfare. These speakers will be introduced by Mrs. Willard.

The addresses by these two well known workers in the League, and club and social work are sure to be of great interest.

Mrs. King was educated at the University of Chicago, the Chicago Art Institute, the Chicago Musical College, the American Conservatory, the Institute Normale, Paris, France.

She has been special industrial secretary for the National Y. W. C. A. in New York and New Jersey; national student secretary for the Y. W. C. A. in Colorado, Utah, Kansas and Wyoming.

She is interested in the P. T. A., drama, and gardening, and is an artist, scribe and illuminator.

Mrs. Taylor is a graduate of Tulane School of Social Work, New Orleans, Master's degree, Columbia University, New York.

She is a graduate School of Social Service Administration, University of Chicago, and now writing Ph. D. thesis on "Guardianship of Minors." Also worked as research assistant at S. S. A.

She has done special research work at the State Training School for Girls, Geneva, and worked as supervisor in a relief station until the fall of 1933.

Florida College Girls Like Spinach

Tallahassee, Fla. —(AP)—When the 1,700 girls at Florida State College for Women sit down for a meal in the main dining room, it looks like boom times for farmers.

Here are some of the items of food that go to make up a typical meal:

Soup, 160 gallons.
Roast beef, 475 pounds.
Beef gravy, 40 gallons.
Irish potatoes, 800 pounds.
Snap beans, 12 bushels.
Spinach, 40 bushels.
Cauliflower, 28 crates.
Carrots, 700 pounds.
Lettuce for salad, one and a half crates.

Vegetable oil for salad, 10 gallons.
Bread, 160 loaves, or 230 dozen biscuits.
Coffee, 40 gallons.
Ice cream, 60 gallons.

The college operates its own dairy and bakery and does all the cooking in a kitchen that is said to be the largest of any college in the south. It covers half an acre and 60 cooks are employed.

Cramer-Flanigan Wedding Tuesday

Last evening at six o'clock, Miss Ethel Mae Cramer, only daughter of Samuel Cramer of the local Fire Department, became the bride of W. Wakeley Flanigan in a beautiful, simple ring ceremony performed by Rev. James A. Barnett at the Christian parsonage on West Second Street.

Miss Clara Padgett was maid of honor and Kenneth Smith acted as best man. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Flanigan and the bride's father, the bride was prettily gowned in pale blue crepe de chene and carried a beautiful bouquet of pink roses. The bride's maid wore a pink silk gown with black chiffon jacket and black hat. The groom is a graduate of Dixon high school and this summer took his degree from Ann Arbor. The young couple will make their home in Dixon.

P. E. O. Met With Mrs. Lancaster Mon.
Chapter A. C. P. E. O. met Monday at the home of Mrs. A. H. Lancaster, 421 E. Everett street. At 1 o'clock a picnic luncheon was enjoyed after which Mrs. John Charters conducted the regular business session. Mrs. A. L. Barlow read the standing rules of the Chapter, the remainder of the afternoon being devoted to bridge.

Mrs. A. F. Moore assisted the hostesses in delightfully entertaining the large number of members who attended the meeting.

Garden Dishes Need Not Be Dull

(By MARY E. DAGUE)
NEA Service Staff Writer

Why is it, I wonder, that vegetable dishes, except for a few romantic exceptions, always sound and often taste so dreadfully dull? Perhaps it is because of the casual and uninspired cooking they too frequently get, so that in the end they are unmistakably in the uninteresting category of things that are "good for us."

Yet when I go to market these crisp autumn days and see the colorful line-up—rich red tomatoes, creamy cauliflower, jade califage, orange carrots and emerald broccoli—I feel that I ought to be able not only to write, but to cook, vegetable poems.

Of course, if you are bent on sticking to one way of doing each vegetable, if for instance, tomatoes stewed represent the ultimate in magnation to you, then obviously there are no cooking poems in your soul.

Speaking of tomatoes, there is a grand array of things that can be done to them. Stuff them, bake them, use them in chowders, combine them with bread crumbs, combine them with meat, macaroni or rice. Try, for instance, tomato and macaroni Neapolitan as a luncheon dish. Or use spaghetti if you prefer. But don't break the sticks. Put the ends in the boiling water and as they become soft they will curl up and the whole length can be put under water.

Tomato and Macaroni Neapolitan
2 cups cooked macaroni
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons butter
1-2 cup grated cheese
2 or 3 large tomatoes
Dried bread crumbs or crisp.

"Coffee and BEIER'S DOUGHNUTS"

Food Habits may change . . . food fads come and go . . . but there's one food habit that has never yet changed—"coffee and doughnuts." There's not a corner of the country where "coffee and" doesn't find a warm welcome.

We don't know what your favorite coffee may be—or perhaps you may even prefer another drink, but we can give you a tip on the other half of the combination—the doughnuts.

You want a light, easily digestible doughnut, of course. A doughnut into which only the purest ingredients have gone. A doughnut so delicious to taste that "coffee and" becomes a snack de luxe!

We've just the answer! Go into your dealer's and ask for a package of—

MANY ARE BOUND DOWN BY A VICIOUS SYSTEM.

One of the hardest things to do, in trying to assess the rights and wrongs of a tangled social order, is to apportion the blame properly between individuals and the system under which they live.

It is hard to stay indignant at an abstraction. We like to personalize our antagonisms. A human target is the first thing our anger requires.

If things are going badly, it is much easier to take it out on John Jones or Bill Smith than it is to center our wrath on society as a whole.

You get an illustration of this in a paragraph in a recent issue of "Advance," the national weekly of the Congregational and Christian churches.

In this magazine a correspondent suggests that the church too often fails to make its criticism of current ills specific. Why, he asks, should not the church put aside its fine statements of general principals and come out, for instance, in open denunciation of a vestryman who hires girls in his factory for $10 a week?

As the editor of the magazine suggests that this question is not quite as simple as it looks.

"There are circumstances," he remarks, "where the employer and the manufacturer are the victims of a competitive system quite as much as the worker."

"It is one thing to demand that Mr. X, a vestryman, should pay his employees a living wage. It is another thing to enable him to do so against the competition of unscrupulous employers who have no ideals, either decently pagan or Christian, in their business enterprises."

Now this point, it seems to us, is worth emphasizing.

It is too easy to forget that under any competitive system all players are bound by the general rules of the game. These rules, the pressure of competition being what it is, frequently lead to bad conditions.

Our respected vestryman may indeed pay his employees less than a living wage—but all too often his sole alternative is to go out of business altogether, in which case his employees would get no wages whatever.

In such case it is worse than useless to get vexed at Mr. X. If we are going to insist that even the humblest worker is entitled to a living wage, our proper point of attack is the system which makes low wages necessary—not the individual through whom the system must operate.

SEA HORRORS REFLECT ECONOMIC PRESSURE.

If Bruno Hamptmann's $10 bills had not led the police to his door just when they did, the investigation into the burning of the Morro Castle would have been front page news longer. And if it had, we might have been forced to recognize the fact that something badly out of gear in the machinery of ocean transportation.

For it is futile to suppose that the Morro Castle tragedy will be "cleared up" if the exact cause of the fire is discovered, or if this or that officer is deprived of his ticket. The whole case is just one more symptom of a bad situation which seems to extend to all maritime nations these days.

There was delay in sending out the SOS, there was confusion and lack of discipline among the ship's crew, many lives were lost that might have been saved. . . . These are the grave charges that have been made.

They don't apply to the Morro Castle alone. They were true when the British ship Vestris went down; they have been true of other post-war sea disasters.

And they reflect a pressure which economic circumstances have put on the ancient business of carrying passengers across the sea.

The captain has lost his old independence. The home office is, or can be, in touch with him every minute by wireless; the temptation to save their money and reputation by deferring to the very last minute a call for help is almost irresistible.

For if the captain issues such a call, and then discovers that he could, after all, have got his ship through unaided, his head is apt to come off when he reaches port—and every captain knows it.

Furthermore, a ship makes no money lying in port. For this reason the "turn around" is quicker now than ever before. Ships spend little time in port between voyages—crack liners, very often, are at their piers only a few hours between one voyage and the next.

As a result, it is hard to keep crews. Sailors like their shore leave. Personnel of the ship's company changes from trip to trip—so discipline inevitably suffers, and the necessary emergency drills fail to result in a smooth, perfectly working machine.

Add to all this the fact that passengers nowadays want ships to be super-hotels, with fine panelling in the cabins, much gim-crackery, and the like. Because of this, steel ships are fitted with flimsy, inflammable passenger quarters—and become fire-traps where they might be fire-proof.

Now all this creates a situation that is no one's fault. It is simple product of economic pressure.

Unless this pressure can in some way be relieved, we shall continue, every so often, to have shocking marine disasters like those of the Morro Castle and the Vestris.

Neither of us has resigned nor is going to be "kicked out," at least for anything we have done so far.—Paul Hansen Appleby, assistant to Rexford Guy Turwell.

Much to the Tynymite's surprise, the cupcake yelled, "Hello, you guys. I just hopped from the oven. All my friends soon will be out. They're waiting to get nice and brown, and then they, too, will hop right down. All of you lots are wondering why I am here, no doubt."

"Of course we are," said Goldy. "Gee, you seem as strange as strange can be. We've never seen a live cupcake with hands and face and feet."

"Please tell us what you plan to do. Would you like us to play with you? My, if you weren't so big, you would look good enough to eat."

"Oh, never mind that eating stuff. That might be play, but it's too rough. Besides, I haven't time to loaf. To market I am bound."

"He's right," one of the bakers said. "But he needs frosting on his head. I'll mix a bowl and then someone can spread it all around."

Just then some more cupcakes hopped from the oven. "Goody, here they come," exclaimed the first cake. "Now we'll form into a little line."

"Then someone can start frosting us. We'll stand real still and start no fuss. When frosted, you all will agree that we look very fine!"

The baker mixed the frosting in a bowl, and Doty, with a grin, said, "I will spread this stuff around. I've tasted it. It's great."

"Now, cupcakes, walk right up to me and you will very shortly see that I am pretty good. Please hurry! I can hardly wait."

The cakes did just as Doty said, and frosting was poured on each head. Then Doty, with a little spoon, began to spread it round. Soon Scouty cried, "Don't be so rough. I'd hate to see you spill that stuff. It looks so good 't would be a shame to drop some on the ground."

Living Our Everyday Lives

"NABOCLISH!"

(By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton)

"When trivial disagreements came in his way," we are told, Sir Walter Scott used to say, "Naboclish," put them out of mind, and let them go. It was his favorite by-word and he used it often.

The word was picked up, John Morley tells us, somewhere in Ireland, when Sir Walter was on a tour. It is old Irish for new French, and means, literally, "Never mind! What does it matter?"

It became a pet by-word with

Morley, too, who learned it from Scott, and he used it like a talismanic charm to rid himself of all sorts of "trivial disagreeables" after this manner:

"When I hear or read some malicious or injurious thing in politics, I find real comfort in saying to myself Naboclish! What does it matter? Why need I care? It won't alter the facts. Time will prove. Wait. The facts are what justifies—facts and time. There's a grand dose of philosophy for you!"

It makes one think of the quaint old motto of the Marischal College in Aberdeen: "They have said; What say they? Let them say." Only the old motto has a bit of insolent defiance in it.

But what does that matter? No small part of the difficult art of living consists in knowing how to discriminate between the trivial and the important, and to treat each as it deserves.

Most of us are at the mercy of trifles most of the time, and happy is the man who finds a way of pushing them out of the way. Otherwise they vex us until we have eyes for nothing else.

To make a mountain out of a mole-hill, and then toilsomely climb the mountain, is foolish. How much better to see straight, keep a sense of proportion, and say, "Never mind! Why bother! No wonder Carlyle called Scott 'one of the healthiest of men.'"

If we make little things big, by the same token we make big things little, and get all mixed up and out of focus. To see things for their real size and deal with them accordingly, is wisdom.

"American Tragedy" Love Letters Read to Jury

Reading of his torrid love letters to Margaret Crain, young music teacher, was the first incident of his trial in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., on charges of murdering Freda McKechnie to break Robert Edwards' indifferent calm. J. Harold Flannery, assistant district attorney, is shown reading the letters to the jury after Edwards' offer to change his plea to guilty was refused. The excerpt from one of the letters reads: "I love you, honey darling. Please be sure of it. Buddy."

SAYS BALANCED BUDGET WOULD BRING DISASTER

Richberg, Chief Policy Advisor, Hits at Blue Eagle's Foes

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Donald R. Richberg, has said that if the government yielded to "destructive political clamors" for immediate balancing of the budget the country would plunge into "national disaster."

Declaring new deal expenditures and measures have saved the nation from "revolution," President Roosevelt's chief policy adviser also struck at "dodo-economists" for attacks on NRA.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Rotary Club, he discussed campaign issues. He set a boost in employment as a goal of NRA and gave new assurance to business that no hasty, blanket changes are planned in that recovery unit.

The budget should be balanced at the "earliest possible moment," Richberg said, but "sweeping demands" for drastic slashing of expenditures and immediate balancing, in the face of relief needs, are the product either of gross ignorance or the greatest form of political demagoguism.

Thanks to the constructive measures which have helped to revive private business," he said, "the burden of federal relief this winter, despite an unprecedented load of drought relief, should be far less than last winter."

"But who is the man who dares to stand before the American people and to declare that we should not have saved millions of people from destitution, suffering and actual starvation last winter, and that in the face of this demand for help we should have cut expenses and balanced the budget? "Communists cannot produce a revolution in this country, but a blind, reactionary, inhumane government could breed a revolt in 30 days by adopting such a program."

"The demands for immediate balancing, he said, "are purely destructive political clamors, to which no administration could yield without bringing on a national disaster."

Touching on monetary policy, he said the Roosevelt dollar "by all tests of stable purchasing power should be regarded as exceptionally sound."

Now Declare Horner Will Not Ask Sales Tax Rate be Raised

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—

The latest word from the Horner administration is that the retail sales tax is not to be raised above its two percent rate.

This was indicated today by Governor Horner, who said definite plans have not been made for raising new funds for unemployment relief. The question is being studied at the State House.

During the campaign reports have been circulated that the sales tax would be doubled to four percent. The levy has been yielding the state more than $3,000,000 monthly.

The legislature is expected to be called into special session in mid-November to extend the sales tax law, which otherwise would expire next June 30.

FIGHT FOR TEN-YEAR-OLD HEIR-ESS CONTINUES

Attorneys Battled In Secret Over Gloria Vanderbilt Today

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—In the guarded courtroom of Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew, the Vanderbilt-Whitney fight for possession of Gloria Vanderbilt, 10-year-old heiress, dragged on today.

It was understood that counsel for Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Gloria's aunt, and who seeks to retain her on the ground that the child's mother, Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt, is not a fit mother, had about 10 witnesses to present.

Chief among these are Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Vanderbilt's mother, Mrs. Laura Kip Patrick Morgan.

During Monday's hearing, Mrs. Vanderbilt left the courtroom and went into an adjoining room and broke into tears. Her attorney said, "Mrs. Vanderbilt is crushed."

Emotional Display
Mrs. Vanderbilt's emotional display came during the testimony of Mlle. Maria Caillot, her discharged maid whose allegations last week prompted Justice Carew to close the hearing to public and press.

Witnesses and attorneys were instructed by the court not to discuss the proceedings, but Justice Carew himself briefly summarized the testimony.

Mlle. Caillot, he said, clung to her original testimony concerning an incident involving Mrs. Vanderbilt and Lady Milford Haven.

The only other witness of Monday's session was Dr. Stuart L. Craig, little Gloria's physician. He testified concerning her health, declaring that when he visited the child at Mrs. Whitney's home recently he found her "in a hysterical and overwrought condition for fear her mother was going to take her away."

Rochelle—The new year for the American Legion and the Auxiliary was started Monday evening with the joint installation of officers held at the Moose Hall.

A 6:30 banquet was held at which time Franklin Ritchie, junior vice commander, acted as toastmaster. Baked ham and all the trimmings was on the menu and a fine dinner was enjoyed.

One of the features of the banquet was the presentation of a token from the youngest member of the Auxiliary, little Miss Nancy Paley, to the oldest member of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Bridget Dee, aged 81, of a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

The following Auxiliary officers:

Most Powerful Liner Afloat Takes Her First Dip

The mysterious giant passenger vessel "No. 534," on which the merged Cunard and White Star lines of England devoted more than three years' work, finally splashed into the River Clyde, near Glasgow, Scotland, when Queen Mary christened the ship with her own name. Although the most powerful ship afloat, the Queen Mary will be second in size to France's new super-liner, the Normandie, launched two years ago. The British ship, however, will carry 4000 passengers and will cost more than $30,000,000. A tug is shown warping the liner into her fitting basin for completion of her superstructure by 1935.

CARDS WIN SERIES AS BOTTLES RAIN

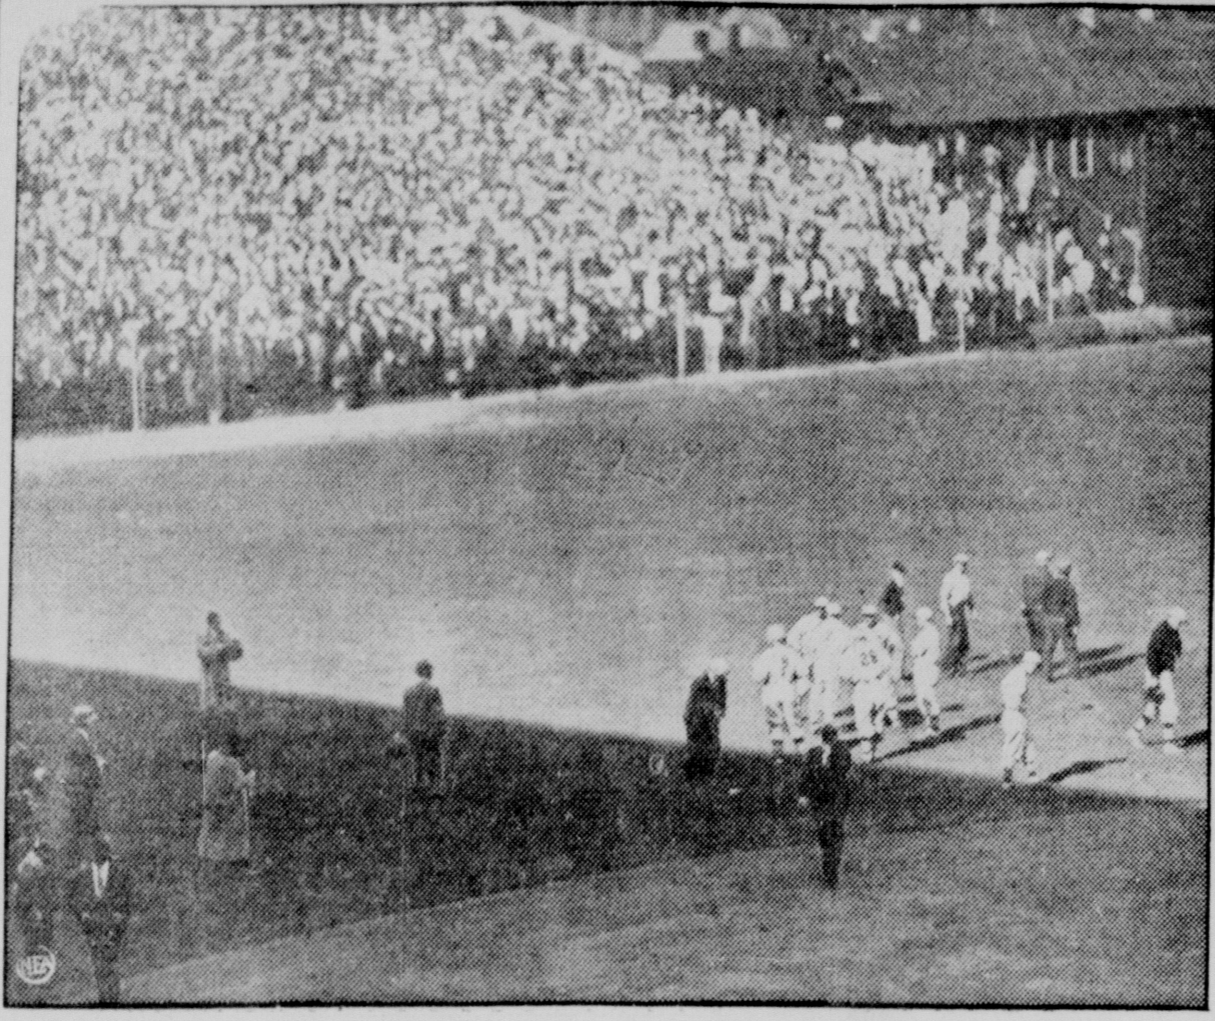

This Bump Started the Row—

And Fans' Wrath Flamed High—

Until Landis Ended Hostilities

Climax of the rough and tumble that featured baserunning of Tigers and Cardinals in the world series came in the sixth inning of the deciding battle at Navin Field, when Ducky Medwick hurtled against Third Baseman Marvin Owen as Medwick went into the third sack on his triple to right, as shown here. The pair squared off, then thought better of it. Everything seemed to be peaceful, but—

The fans in the left field stands clamored for vengeance, when Ducky strolled out to take up his position in the left garden for the last half of the sixth stanza. Pop bottles sang through the air, vegetables and fruit came in a shower. Ducky was signaled back to the infield. He went in, then came back to the pasture, but once more the irate fans showered him. Umpires, players, photographers, and groundkeepers rushed out and went into a huddle, so—

Back to the home plate boxes moved the parade, and Judge Landis, indicated by arrow, went into conference with Manager Frisch, shown before him, right, and Medwick, left. Back of them were arrayed the photographers and behind the cameraman Owen, No. 8, waited. After mulling over the situation, Medwick went to the dugout, Owen back to the third sack, the other players assumed their positions, Fullis going to left field, play went on, and peace descended over the battleground.

Detroit Fans Couldn't Take Rout As Gracefully As Did Defeated Tigers

Exploded After Joe Medwick Retaliated on Owens

Detroit, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The fabulous brothers Dean and the St. Louis Cardinals bestirred the baseball world today like a Siamese twin colossus, and so St. Louis rules the national pastime again for the third time in nine years. Sharing in their world series glory is the entire National League, for years the underdog in the annual fall baseball battle. Not only did the big brother Dizzy and his brother Paul subdue the Detroit Tigers four times in seven games, something never before approached in baseball history, but the senior circuit can boast its third conquest in four years, and consider wiped out forever the humiliation heaped on it by the Yankees and Athletics.

The shoe is on the other foot, and it is the American League's turn to rub redneck hands and prepare for a winter of worrying over the swing of the balance of power in exactly the opposite direction in four short years. St. Louis beat the Athletics in seven games in 1929, and though the Yanks trounced the Cubs in 1932, the Giants beat the Senators last fall.

One Record Stars Last Fall. The Cards failed to wipe off the books the record rally of ten runs in one inning the Athletics piled up on the Cubs, but they came close enough as they closed out the riotous seven game battle yesterday with big Dizzy's second victory, a shutout scored by the widest margin in series history, 11 to 0, eclipsing another league record, Christy Mathewson's 9 to 0 white-washing of the Athletics for the Giants of 1905.

They rammed home seven runs in the third, routing two pitchers who had beaten them earlier in the series, Elden Auker and the wobbly young giant Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe. They disposed of the Indian left hander Elton Hoggsett, who had held them in subjection previously in relief roles. They subsided temporarily under the influence of Tommy Bridges, the slim curve ball artist who pitched the Tigers' third victory, but they broke out all over again in the sixth and seventh innings to complete a vengeful day with four more runs.

Psychopathic Series. Almost transcending the ball game though, was the unprecedented demonstration of 17,000 disgusted faithful in the left field bleachers, halting the ball game for 17 minutes between halves of the sixth inning, and finally forcing another history making decision, the expulsion by High Commissioner K. M. Landis of Joe Medwick, Cardinal left fielder, to complete the wild picture of what the boys are already referring to as the psychopathic series.

Incensed at the whole proceedings in general, and Medwick in particular, the Detroit fandom that lived and died thousands of deaths this summer loyally rooting the Tigers into the American League pennant suddenly cracked wide open under the strain of the route. Medwick's brief clash with Marvin Owen, Detroit's third baseman, as the Cardinal slugger slid into third after tripping to for right series off 17,000, provided the spark for the outraged explosion.

Owens Started Off. Medwick boomed into third with plenty of gusto, and observers in the press box overhead, peering down intently, saw the third baseman flick his right foot quickly at Medwick's legs. The chunky Cardinal, a firebrand all through the series, still lying on the ground after his slide, promptly reared back with both feet, and lashed out with his spikes toward the upper part of Owens' body.

They were both very mad, but as they jumped for each other, Umpire Bill Klem, who was almost standing over the play, and athletes from both sides, rushed in, pushed them in opposite directions, cooled them off, and the game went on.

The score was 9 to 0 in favor of the Cards, and Bridges was tiring rapidly. The Tiger fandom, seeing the demoralization of their first world series view in 25 years, burst all series record bounds of indignation.

Rotten Sports. They pelted oranges, bananas, hot dog buns, apples, pop bottles, anything that could reach, over the screen in left at Medwick as he trotted out to his position starting the Tigers' half of the sixth. They booed and roared with the abandon of the outraged, and in a twinkling the playing surface out there was covered with debris. Medwick retreated to let the storm die out, and everyone stood around for a few minutes while groundkeepers cleaned the place up.

But the moment Medwick tried to stroll nonchalantly back, the pelting started all over again, and again everyone waited until the cleaners had come and gone. When it was repeated a third time, and Mickey Cochrane, trotting out to the scene in person, could not regain the mastery over the people that has been his ever since he took over the management last winter, there was nothing for Umpire-in-Chief Harry Geisel to do but appeal to Landis.

The shaggy haired potentate called the culprits, Medwick and Owens, to his box, along with the umpires and managers Frankie Frisch and Cochrane or a sort of rump court martial in full view of everyone. He asked Medwick if he had any reason for kicking at Owens and the outfielder, with 40-902 witnesses, the official attendance, against him, said he didn't. Asked then, why he had done it, Medwick replied: "Well, you know a lot of things happen when you slide into third."

Subjugation Continued.

Landis immediately thumbed him away and Joe strode off in the company of five policemen, for safekeeping, and the subjugation of the Tigers went on.

Medwick also might have told Landis that a lot of things happen when you slide into the home plate too, for it was his plunge into Cochrane in the third inning of the second game here, when he was thrown out by Goose Goslin trying to score on Collins' single to left that started some of the roughest play in the world series history.

Every player on both sides has done as much damage as possible going into bases. Five times in a single game, the fourth contest Saturday in St. Louis, either Frisch at second or Martin at third failed to hold the ball as Detroit runners smashed into them. Every Cardinal score that was close meant a knockdown for Cochrane at the plate. Pepper Martin was taking out Gehring at second and Owen at third like a blocking college halfback.

Used Whole Staff. As a ball game, yesterday's match quickly passed the contest stage. Cochrane, who spent a night in a hospital nursing his hurts and wondering whom he would pitch, finally used his whole series staff, most of them in the third inning as 13 cards went to bat, seven hit safely, three for doubles, three walked, the bases were filled three times, seven scored, four pitchers took part, and Dizzy hit safely twice, in itself a series record for a pitcher.

Dean, adding the last victory to the fifth he pitched in the opening game with one defeat in between, allowed only six hits and walked none as he joined brother Paul in winning twice.

Only one man got as far as third. Hank Greenberg singled in the fifth and with one out went to third on Pete Fox's first of two doubles. But Bridges fanned and Joyner White was an easy infield out. Greenberg fanned three times in Dizzy's list of five, the last time in the ninth, when the Tigers threatened again with singles by Gehring and Bill Rogell.

CHAIN SYSTEM PAID CARDS IN BIG DIVIDENDS

Columbus Team Also Winner in Its World Series

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—(AP)—"Chain baseball," as practiced by the St. Louis Cardinal management, paid dividends this year.

Yesterday the Missouri team in the majors won the world series, and last night the Columbus club, champions of the American Association, won the little world series, making it a gala day for Branch Rickey et al.

The Birds won five of nine games from the Toronto Maple Leafs who had annexed the International League title.

The Birds won the series a year ago, and then the Cardinals took such stars as Rothrock, Burgess Whitehead and Paul Dean to St. Louis and sold Bill Lee to Chicago. This year, with the gaps filled with last year's substitutes and players brought in from other Cardinal farms, the club finished second in the Association race, then beat Minneapolis in the play-off for the flag.

The Leafs piled up 58 runs to 56 for the Birds, had 92 hits while Columbus was getting 90 and had only 12 errors while the champions were committing 13 misplays.

The edge lay in the long distance hitting by Columbus with eight home runs in the nine games.

FOUR DECISIONS FROM LANDIS ON SERIES ARE DUE

However Commissioner Will Let Everybody Cool Off First

BULLETIN. Detroit, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's high commissioner, today imposed fines of $50 each on William J. Klem, senior umpire of the National League, and William Delancey, St. Louis Cardinal catcher, for the use of "over-ripe words" during the world series.

A decision in the case of Joe Medwick, Cardinal outfielder who was the central figure in the near-riot of Tuesday's final game, will be reserved for a few days, Judge Landis said.

Judge Landis described Klem's argument with Leon (Goose) Goslin, Tiger outfielder, which took place Monday in a crowded hotel lobby, as "unbecoming a major league umpire."

He said it was the first time in his 14 years as baseball commissioner that he had found it necessary to fine an umpire.

Umpire Clarence Owens fined Delancey $200 for abusive language in St. Louis. Landis said the fine was illegal.

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Detroit, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The world series of 1934 will be remembered for years to come in baseball, not alone for the sensational pitching of the Dean Brothers, but for the most fantastic sequence of episodes since four strikes were out.

If what the league leaders call "aggressiveness" and what the bleacherites know as "fight" is the factor needed to help restore baseball's popularity, the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and their victims, the Detroit Tigers, have gone a long way toward providing it.

The most colorful world series in recent years saw more spikes flying into the base guardians, more violent language used, more controversies between the umpires and players than any other championship fracas since Kenesaw Mountain Landis became High Commissioner in 1921.

Four Decisions Due. Landis has decisions to make on four disputes, on all of which he held hearings before leaving last night for Chicago. Before the commissioner makes any weighty pronouncements, however, he's going to let everybody cool off and go fishing for a few days. Then he will decide what, if anything, is to be done about the rows that Bill Delancey of the Cardinals and Hank Greenberg and Goose Goslin had with the umpires, as well as the case of Joe Medwick, whose impetuous charge into Marvin Owen at third base yesterday was followed by the most riotous demonstration by the fans since Landis himself was the target of abuse at the Polo Grounds in 1922 after a 10-inning tie between the Giants and Yankees was called on account of "darkness."

The seven-run Cardinal onslaught that blasted Tiger hopes in the third inning and the 17-minute outburst of violence by bleacherites in the sixth inning yesterday capped the climax of dizzy developments, with the one and only Dizzy himself at the center of the picture.

During the seven-game struggle, both teams took turns at trying to kick the series away in the field. Heroes one day, such as Pepper Martin and Schoolboy Rowe, were "goats" the next time out. The Tigers "beamed" Dizzy Dean one afternoon with a thrown ball, beat him the next to stand within one game of victory but then subsided before the combined pitching skill of Paul Dean and Dizzy himself on successive days.

Mickey Cochrane, spiked twice and badly battered, came out of a hospital to play all but the last half-inning of the final game. Most fantastic of all was the story of Schoolboy Rowe's fingers being squeezed so hard by the hand-thumping Joe E. Brown, film comedian that it was necessary to take him to the hospital.

And in the final confusion, a fan with football habits and a set of tools, ripped up the home plate to get it autographed by members of the winning team.

Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, anticipated no trouble signing the Dean brothers to contracts for 1935. He is already on record as saying flatly there is not the slightest chance he will sell either of his young pitching ace to a rival National League club.

"Yes, they are entitled to a nice raise," smiled Breadon. "They have had a wonderful year and they won't have to do any worrying about the future. We will talk contract with them in due time and I don't think we will have any argument about it."

Manager Frankie Frisch, whose spirit is credited by Breadon with pulling the Cardinals together for their final pennant drive, is already assured a new contract at a higher salary for next year. But in keeping with Cardinal custom it won't be for a long term. The St. Louis club is "out of the red" for the first time since 1931, thanks to the world series profits, but the situation is always subject to change.

MAROONS HOPE FOR A BIG TEN WIN SATURDAY

Michigan's Loss to State Encourages Chicago Team

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Chicago's Maroons, starving for a football victory over a Big Ten foe since 1932, are looking for the famine to end Saturday when they meet Michigan at Stagg Field.

To the casual observer, there seems to be no particular reason for expecting the Maroons to conquer Michigan. The Wolverines did suffer their first defeat since 1931 last week at the hands of Michigan State, but Chicago, in defeating Carroll College in its opener two weeks ago, didn't look so hot either.

The Maroons, however, are really winding up for Saturday. Against Carroll Chicago used about seven ordinary plays and made plenty of mistakes. Since then, Coach Clark Shaughnessy has drilled his squad in strict privacy. He is reported to have shifted his lineup radically and primed the new battle front with a choice variety of tricky stuff.

To Get Ideas. Whichever wins, a pretty definite idea of how far the Maroon comeback campaign has progressed, and how much the Wolverines have slipped, if any, probably will be gained.

Although definitely improved in 1933 over their showing the previous season, the Maroons failed to defeat a Big Ten team last year. Indiana was Chicago's last conference victim, losing a 13 to 7 decision early in 1932.

Irked by last week's unexpected defeat, Michigan's coaching staff is driving the Wolverines. Frequent changes have been made particularly in the line, which, in spite of plenty of poundage, failed to cope with Michigan State's forwards. Unless some other candidate shows a lot of stuff, Willis Ward, Michigan's Negro track star and a fine end, will play in the backfield against Chicago.

AMAZING DEAN BROTHERS WILL KEEP ON MOUND

Will Join Barnstorming Team in Chicago Next Monday

Detroit, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Deans, Dizzy and Paul, are going to keep right on pitching.

While most of the world series players packed their grips for a big rush to the wide open spaces to catch up on some long lost sleep or chase jackrabbits, wild bear or deer, Dizzy and Daffy still couldn't resist the lure of the diamond. They are preparing, to the amazement of even their own mates, to join a baseball barn-storming troupe.

"Shucks, Paul and me are just getting warmed up," boasted the famous Dizzy, who has pitched in "only" nine games—three of them world series engagements—over the last 19 days.

The two brothers won 49 games between them in the Cardinal rush for the National League pennant and all four St. Louis victories in the world series. Dizzy thought he and Paul would join the barnstormers in Chicago Sunday.

of golfing and hunting. After that I am going to Honolulu for three weeks' vacation."

Pepper Martin is going to Mexico to hunt wild bear, deer, mountain lion and bears with his old shooting companions, Otto Krueger and Mac Blocker. Ernie Orsatti and Jack Rothrock, Cardinal outfielders, plan to hunt and fish together out in California.

Plans of Others. Jo Jo White, the walkingst man in the series, is getting his tonsils yanked out here and then going to Miami, Fla., for the winter. Tommy Bridges will rest in Detroit a while and then make a trip to Gordonsville, Tenn., and Nashville.

Charley Gehring, who is a big automobile accessory man in Detroit during the winter months will rest here a while and then join Connie Mack's all-stars for their tour of the Orient.

Goose Goslin is going back to his farm near Salem, N. J.; Bill Hallahan will stay in St. Louis a while and then return to his home at Binghamton, N. Y.; Jimmy Delancey is heading for Greensboro, N. C. and home Rip Collins is going back home to Rochester, N. Y. and "watch a lot of football games."

And, as everyone knows, Schoolboy Rowe is getting married.

27 RECORDS OF VARIOUS KINDS FELL IN GAMES

Cardinals' Manager Led Record-Breakers in Series

Detroit, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Seven new all-time world series baseball records were set and nine others tied, in the process of the Cardinals' fanning of the Tigers. Eleven other marks for a seven-game series were broken, with one equalled, making a grand total of 27 assorted record performances.

Manager Frank Frisch of the new world champions led the record-breakers of both clubs by improving on five of the marks previously credited to him. Completing his eighth series, Frisch holds the records for most games played, 50; most base-hits, 58; most times at bat, 197; most singles, 45; and most doubles, 9. He equalled a sixth record by driving home three runs with a double in the final game.

Ervin (Pete) Fox, right-fielder of the Tigers, emerged with a record total of six two-baggers for a single series. This also put him in a tie with Babe Ruth for the most extra-base hits in one series. The Babe hit three doubles and three homers in 1928.

Dizzy Shares Records
Dizzy Dean, who would rather talk about his hitting than his pitching, now shares two batting records with the big series slugger. Dizzy put himself into the "little red book" not only by the mere fact of coming up to the plate twice in one inning yesterday but by getting two basehits, a feat that only Ross Young, Jimmy Dykes, Jimmie Fox and Al Simmons achieved before him. The margin of Dean's closing shutout victory, 11-0, is another one for the book.

Other records equalled: Most hits in one game, four, by Joe Medwick, Hank Greenberg and Jim Collins; most runs batted in during one game, four, by Billy Rogell; one or more bases in each game, Charley Gehring and Pepper Martin; most errors by third baseman, one game, three by Martin, who also tied the series mark with a total of four miscues.

Highest Average
For a seven-game series, the Cardinals posted the highest batting average on record—.272—besides driving in more runs, sending more men up to bat, getting more basehits, more triples, more long hits and posting a larger total-base figure. Combined, the two clubs exceeded former seven-game records for hits, runs batted in, triples and total long hits. The Cardinals equalled the record for total runs.

ONE CREED FOR ALL CHILDREN, SCOUTS' BOAST

Scout Laws Have Be- come Universal in Application

One creed for all children based on unselfishness, fair play, loyalty and courage is the boast of the Boy and Girl Scouts of America.

So universal have Scout laws become that although they differ slightly in various countries, all of them stress the importance of preparedness for any emergency, unselfish devotion to flag and country, helpfulness to those who cannot help themselves and trustworthiness to adults or superiors.

Here in Dixon there are Boy and Girl Scouts eager and anxious to continue in Scouting, hampered only by lack of funds. People of Dixon have responded most generously to the drive and every person should want to feel that he can have a part in the Scout program. Individuals have responded generously but the goal is not yet reached. We need to dig deep into our pockets and help the 150 volunteer workers who are giving their time to make the drive a success. Invest a few dollars in your own child or some other parents' children to make the new generation better fitted for American life.

To trace Scout activity during a year would be too lengthy for this column but the essential phases of a Scout's life cannot too often be stated: trustworthiness, loyalty, friendliness, courteousness, kindness, obedience, cheerfulness, thriftiness, bravery, cleanliness of mind and body—these are the ideals which Scouts seek to realize. Are they not worthy of your support?

Farm Prices Higher Auctioneer States

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Auctioneer H. T. Jones says farm lands are coming back. Here's why: The M. F. Raycraft estate's farm of 246 acres, five miles north of here, sold at an executor's sale for $140 an acre Monday—believed to be a new high since the slump in land values.

BOY AWAKENED AT SCHOOL AND TOLD HE'S KING

11-Year-Old Lad Is Now Ruler of Troubled Yugoslavia

London, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A sleepy-eyed eleven year old boy, was told today he must tread the royal path of his murdered father.

Little Peter Karageorge was called shortly after dawn from his bed in the Sanroyd school and thrust into a day of bewildering realities. He was told that he now was Peter II, King of Yugoslavia, successor to King Alexander I, slain yesterday at Marseille.

After a hasty breakfast and after being told his father was dead, Peter was taken to the Yugoslav legation and was prepared to join his mother, Queen Marie, in France.

After three poignant hours in which a steady stream of diplomatic callers visited the legation, Peter seemed somewhat dazed, but with a stiff upper lip. He later was hurried to a hotel for a reunion with his maternal grandmother, the Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania.

Carefully Guarded
Meanwhile Yugoslav officials were busy with plans for the movements of the royal party, and at noon, the boy-king emerged from the legation, and carefully guarded motored to Piccadilly to join his grandmother.

Two hours later the young king and Queen Marie left London en route to Paris, where they were to be met by the French premier, Raymond Poincaré.

Last night the housemaster at Sanroyd was notified to arouse Peter earlier than his dormitory mates. With sleep still in his eyes he was awakened, a message was whispered in his ear that urgent news awaited him in the headmaster's office.

Dressing hastily, Peter followed the housemaster to the school of the day where his tutor, C. C. Parrott, and the headmaster were seated. Probably still wondering what school rules he had broken, the news was imparted that changed him from Peter Karageorge to King Peter II.

Breakfast was hastily served and without time even to bid his school mates adieu, Peter was enroute by motorcar for his country's legation here, his ultimate destination being Belgrade, a regency and eventually the throne of that troubled kingdom.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHARLES MORDEN, reporter for The Blade, telephones his newspaper an exclusive story about FRANK B. CATHAY, a Riverview, wealthy and prominent, brought to police headquarters on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and accompanied by a pretty young woman who calls herself MARY BRIGGS, hitch hiker.

Next day it is learned that the man was an impostor. The real Cathay demands damages and a retraction. DAN BLEEKER, junior publisher of The Blade, convinced that "something is fishy," sends Morden to Riverview to learn all he can about Cathay.

MRS. CATHAY calls on Bleeker and asks him to come to the Palace hotel for a conference with her husband's lawyer, CHARLES FISHER. Bleeker goes.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VI

THE door of the hotel room was opened by a tall individual whose gray eyes peered in eager expectation at Dan Bleeker. "You brought him," the man said, and there was unmistakable relief in his voice.

Bleeker nodded, followed Mrs. Cathay into the room, turned to face the big man who was closing and locking the door. "Well?" he asked.

"It was very nice of you to come," said the man in a booming voice, which had apparently been carefully cultivated to convey an atmosphere of impressive dignity.

He was a ponderous figure, somewhere in the forties. He was heavily fleshed and his shoulders sagged forward, as though most of his work had been done over a desk.

"I," he said, "am Charles Fisher, senior partner of the firm of Fisher, Barr and McReady, with offices in the First National bank at Riverview. We handle all of Mr. Cathay's legal work. Won't you please be seated, Mr. Bleeker?"

Mrs. Cathay walked to the full-length mirror, surveyed herself quietly, turned and without a glance at Bleeker, walked through a passageway into an adjoining room. Her manner was that of one whose work has been done.

"Just what do you want?" Bleeker asked.

"Mr. Cathay," said Fisher gravely, "is a very important individual in Riverview. Perhaps he sometimes overestimates his importance. That is, however, neither here nor there, nor should I care to be quoted. He has quite a bit of pride, and when he has once reached a decision he is very much inclined to stay . . ."

"I've heard all that before," Bleeker said.

FISHER frowned. A swift flush of rage appeared on his countenance, and then he smiled slowly and gravely.

"I am prepared to advise my client," he said, "to withdraw any libel suits and give you a complete release in return for your assurance that a retraction will be published by the newspaper."

Bleeker's voice was crisp, his manner truculent. "We'll publish this sort of a retraction," he said, "and no other. We'll publish a statement to the effect that The Blade has discovered the man who gave the name of Cathay at police headquarters was an impostor. A pickpocket who had stolen Cathay's wallet, and chose to masquerade under Cathay's name. We will publish it prominently, not as a retraction, but as an additional development that has been uncovered through the diligence of our newspaper reporters. That's our final answer. You can take it or leave it."

"I'll take it," Fisher said.

Dan Bleeker pushed past him toward the door.

"Wait a minute," Fisher told him. "You'll want some sort of a receipt. Some kind of a release in full of all claims for damage."

Dan Bleeker, with his hand on the door knob, stared at Charles Fisher and shook his head slowly from side to side.

"We don't want anything from Frank B. Cathay," he said. "We're going ahead and publish that retraction in just the manner that I outlined to you. Any time Cathay thinks he can make money out of suing our newspaper, we'll show him where he can't. That goes for him and for his lawyers. Do you get that?"

IT was the following afternoon Dan Bleeker, at his desk frowned irritably at Ethel West.

"What was your last report from Charles Morden?" he asked.

Ethel West picked up a short-handled notebook from before her. "You talked with him personally day before yesterday, didn't you?"

"Yes. What did you hear from him yesterday?"

Ethel West strode from Bleeker's private office. A few minutes later Dick Kennedy entered.

"That Cathay business," said Bleeker. "I want some action on it."

"But I understood the whole matter had been dropped," Kennedy said, his forehead puckered with a puzzled frown.

"Cathay's dropped it," Bleeker snapped. "We haven't."

"What do you want done?"

"I want that lead followed up. The angle of finding out who it was that picked Cathay's pocket and posed as Cathay and why he did it."

"But I thought that was just the angle we played to cover our retraction."

"It was, and we're going ahead with it."

DICK KENNEY nodded.

"I want to find out more about Cathay," said Bleeker. "He was registered here in the city somewhere. Have the men cover all the hotels. Find out where Cathay was registered. See if you can find out something about his business. Find out if he was here alone or if anyone was with him. And in particular try and find out more about this pickpocket business. There was a girl, a hitch-hiker, I believe she said. Mary Briggs I think her name was. You should be able to locate her. Run down that angle of it."

"Mary Briggs probably cleared out of town just as soon as she got out of the police station," Kenney said.

"Then go out of town to look for her!" Bleeker snapped explosively.

The telephone rang. Dan Bleeker swooped down upon the receiver, held it to his ear, said, "Bleeker speaking," and then listened while the receiver made rapid, squawking noises. "Where are you now?" he asked. "Very well, I'll let you talk with him now."

Bleeker held the receiver over toward Dick Kenney.

"Fred Nixon, who's covering headquarters," he said. "Listen to what he has to say."

Kenney took the telephone, said in a low, conversational voice, "All right, Nixon. What is it?"

Once more the receiver made a succession of squawking, metallic noises. Kenney stiffened to rigid attention. The skin about his knuckles grew white as he gripped the receiver.

"Good God!" he said slowly. "Are they certain?"

There was another interval of noise from the transmitter. Then Kenney said, "We're sending some men to help you. Wait there until they come. Then start covering everything. The paper will see this thing through to a finish. You get hold of the homicide squad and let them understand we're out for blood. Do you get me? All right, just a moment then . . . hold the telephone."

Kenney looked over at Dan Bleeker. "Are there any instructions?" he asked. "Morden's murdered."

Scene From the Great Smoky Mt. Region to Grace Stamp

Where Daniel Boone killed a "bar" in 1760; where mountain folk live the same as they did three centuries ago in spite of the proximity to large cities—that's the tree-covered, misty Mt. Le Conte in the Great Smoky National Park dividing North Carolina and Tennessee. The above view of Mt. Le Conte, over a mile high, will adorn one of series of national park stamps to be issued by the Postoffice Department.

Old Art A New Hobby

Madame Halvaard Bachke, wife of the Norwegian Minister to the U.S.A., gives the Girl Scouts who celebrate International Month in March, a lesson from the old world for the new. Here she is showing them how she has found a handloom in the home the most pleasant and profitable solution of what to do with one's leisure-time, never a problem in her country.

The Key to the Golden Gate

Seen from the air, the fender and trestle of the mammoth Golden Gate bridge, together with Fort Point, take the form of a gigantic key. A circle of concrete 750 feet in circumference and reaching 100 feet to the bottom of San Francisco bay forms a fender within which the south pier of the bridge will be built, protected from the tide-swept waters. The fender is seen lower right foreground in this picture, copyrighted by the Associated Oil Company.

rolls, marmalade, pickles, cabbage salad, coffee, pumpkin pie and whipped cream, all for the small sum of 40 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Mark next Saturday evening as taken for the chicken supper.

W. F. M. S.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist church met on Thursday, October 4, with Mrs. W. L. Moore. This was the first meeting of the new year, and a part of the program was an in-station service for the newly elected officers, conducted by the out-going president, Mrs. Elizabeth Durkes. Devotions were led by Mrs. Nellie Stewart and the first chapter of the new study book, "Japanese Women Speak" was reviewed by Miss Clara Lahman. This, the book being studied by missionary organizations of all denominations, was written by two Japanese women and is a very interesting and informing work on Japan.

The list of goals for the society for the coming year was read and discussed.

eries, although occasionally they affect adolescents, in whom the condition points to bad mental hygiene. Those who are highstrung, readily upset emotionally, and particularly susceptible.

The pathology of the condition has not been fathomed but it has been suggested that the sensations are due to the fact that the brain does not wake as rapidly or as fully as the body.

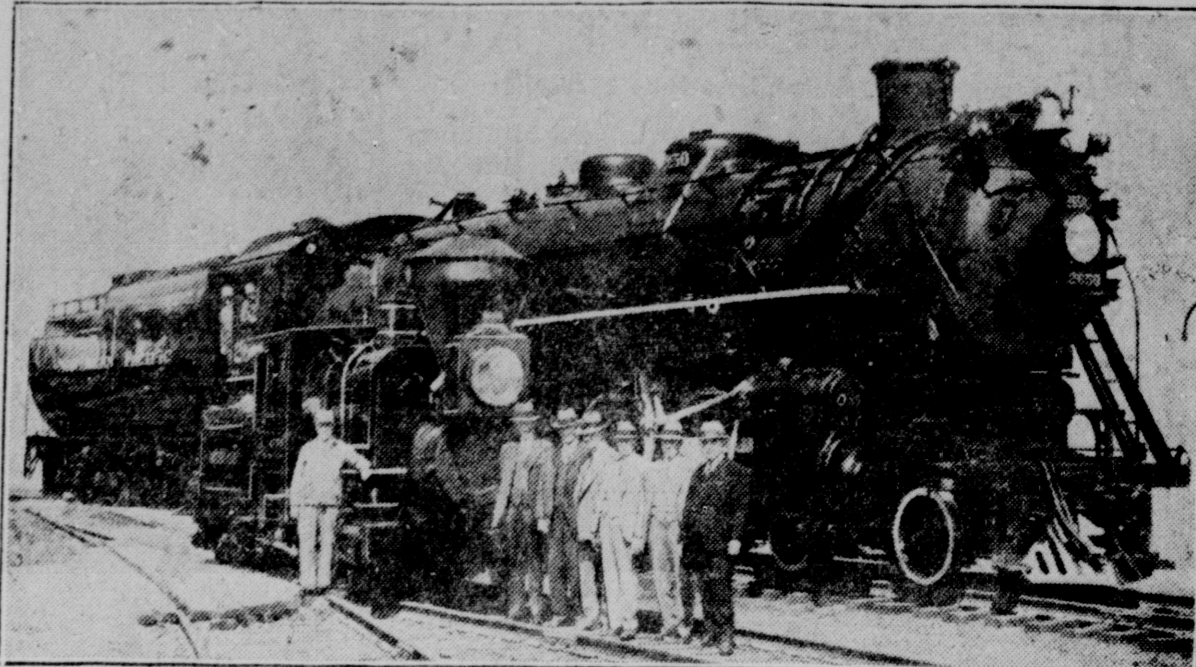

The treatment is simple. The patient is advised to follow the habit of the great Duke of Wellington, namely, "to turn out when he turns over." The sufferer should rise promptly and set about his business. Setting up exercises will prove of value but the normal activities of getting ready for the day are to be preferred.

Steam Engine Progress Vividly Shown at Fair

New and old types of passenger locomotives used in the service of the Northern Pacific railroad are shown on the same stage at Wings of A Century at the World's Fair. The old Minnetonka, of the vintage of 1869, is pictured in front with the latest type of monster iron horse in the rear. The latter, first of ten completely equipped roller-bearing engines built for the road, at a cost of $1,250,000, is 110 feet long and weighs, including tender, 855,000 pounds.

MORNING MISERIES

For the rather descriptive title of this article, we are indebted to the English scientist, Sir Andrew Clark, who, in 1883 described "that interesting and instructive group of clinical affections which is unconnected, except casually, with sensible structural alterations of the tissues and organs."

These clinical affections he called the morning agony of "middle-aged, nervous persons."

The typical example is described as follows: "A man awaking at dawn is conscious of undefinable malaise and unrest; his mental and moral outlook becomes dark and gloomy; aching pains arise in the limbs; unable to lie still, he tosses restlessly about his bed; the malaise deepens into distress, and he groans; a cold sweat breaks forth all over his body; and then in a few minutes the attack subsides, and the patient finds himself in his accustomed health and spirits."

Study reveals that morning miseries are more common in men than in women, and that the sensations come usually after a good night's rest and last on an average for one hour longer when the victim remains in bed.

Those in the fourth to the sixth decade of life appear to be particularly susceptible to morning miseries.

REV. COTTON MATHER FIRST AMERICAN ELECTED TO ROYAL SOCIETY OF LONDON.

CORRUGATED PAPER FOR PACKING INVENTED 1871, BY A. L. JONES.

Answers to Previous Questions

JOHN NICHOLAS GENIN conceived the idea of felt hats for women, who previously were wearing bonnets, in honor of the Hungarian patriot, Louis Kossuth, who was a guest of the United States at the time. The Rev. Mr. Mather prepared a report on a supposed race of giants in America, when three teeth and an 18-foot thigh bone were unearthed in Albany, N. Y. The Jones patent covered only corrugated sheets. Later, additional sheets were added to make corrugated board.

SUCCESS? LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORD!

You can't overlook such facts as this—
The Goodyear "G-3" is the fastest-selling tire in the world today!

That's what we call SUCCESS!
And here are the reasons—

43% longer non-skid mileage—at no extra price!

The Goodyear margin of safety—quicker stops than any tire ever tested against this sensational "G-3"—due to grip in the center of the tread!

Blowout protection in every ply—because every ply is built with patented Goodyear Supertwist.

Come in and take a look at the tire that gives you more non-skid safety for your money—the greatest tire sensation in years!

Here's what you get in Goodyear's new "G-3"
You get the broader road contact of a flatter, wider All-Weather Tread.
You get quicker stopping and the greater road grip of more non-skid blocks in the center.
You get the easy steering and smooth travel of wider riding ribs.
You get the slow, even wear of closer-nested non-skid blocks and ribs.
You get more rubber in the tread—an average of two pounds more per tire.
—all of which adds up to 43% MORE NON-SKID MILEAGE at no extra cost to you!
